Grievance process

Roblox users can report grievances via details provided on the Grievance Officer - India page. Non-Roblox users seeking to report grievances in India can also access this page. Separately, users can report directly on the platform. We have a dedicated team of moderators to review and take appropriate action to address grievance reports.

Content moderation practices

Automated and human content moderation

A combination of automated and human content moderation systems plays a crucial role in enforcing our policies by proactively identifying and removing violative content. Content uploaded on the platform such as images undergoes a comprehensive review process before it is published, while content such as voice-chat communications is assessed for policy violations in real-time.

Content not flagged for removal by automated systems can still be subject to human review when (1) reported by users or our safety partners, (2) reviewed for quality assurance purposes, or (3) determinations require human judgment to assess context or nuance.

Enforcement actions

Once a policy violation has been determined, we take action in accordance with our policies. The actions taken can vary based on the severity and impact of the violation, and they can include:

- Warnings
- Removing content
- Roblox account-level or feature-level restrictions

In addition to considering the specific violation, we also take into account a user's historical use of the platform and whether they have repeatedly violated our policies. Repeated violations of our policies may increase the severity of the enforcement actions.
